Play Structure

Running, jumping, swinging, crawling, sliding, climbing and zipping are some of the ways your kids will play their way to good health in the amazing five-level AdventureRoom play structure—the best indoor playground in the South Bay. Packed with colorful mazes, tunnels, slides, zip lines and ball pits, there's fun for all ages inside—even parents can join in the fun!

There's no need to worry about the little guys not being able to keep up with the big kids either. A toddler play area—promoting interactive and imaginative play—is reserved just for children three years and younger.

And if safety and cleanliness are important to you as they are to the AdventurePlex staff, then you just found two more reasons to love the play structure.

- Everything from the ball pit balls to the floor is sanitized daily.
- Mesh and webbing throughout the structure means there's nothing to impede your vision, so you can observe what's going on at all times.
- Every landing is covered with soft surfaces, cushioning any falls.
